NEW YORK AD'S.
NOTICE.
Model Sewing Machine.

[From the New York Herald]

Prominent among the mechanical triumphs of this most ingenious age, common honesty compels us to notice the Empire Sewing Machine, commended as justly styled perfection itself. Useful as have been the various sewing machines, from time to time presented to the public, each one of them has been cursed with some radical defect, which detracts from general utility. Warned by the experience of his predecessors, the inventor of the Empire Machine has produced an instrument, combining all the advantages for which others are valued, and obviating every defect which can be attributed to them by the most fastidious critic.

The Empire Machine is a marvellous combination of simplicity, economy and perfect workmanship, being durable, free from liability to get out of order, noiseless, and easy of operation. Its mechanical contrivance is such as to secure stability, freedom from accident, and accuracy as to workmanship. By the use of the patented shuttle and straight needle, it makes a stitch, which can neither rip nor ravel, at the same time, it can operate perfectly upon every species of material from leather to cambric, with threads of cotton, linen or silk, from the finest to the coarsest number.

As the Empire Machine is gradually supplanting its more antique rivals, no one in want of a useful instrument of this description, be he or she tailor, coach maker, dress maker or seamstress, can do otherwise than secure one of these economical and inimitable machines, suited alike for family and manufacturing purposes. The office of the Empire Manufacturing Co. is at No. 536 Broadway, New York City, where they are now supplying these Empire Machines at prices far below the real value of the instrument.

We are glad to learn that according to previous notice, as published in the Banner, a large portion of the Physicians of the county met at the office of Drs. Whitehead and Henderson on last Tuesday, for the purpose of re-organizing the "Rowan County Medical Society." This organization we think beneficial, both to the citizen and the Physician. The County Societies are auxiliary to the State Medical Society, which meets in Raleigh, June 5th. The object of this Society is, in the language of the preamble to the constitution, that,

Whereas, We a portion of the Physicians of Rowan County, in convention assembled, believing that the extension of knowledge upon all subjects, pertaining to the healing art, and the improvement of the capacities of those, to whose skill and attention the suffering community is entrusted, are matters of the deepest interest, and that those objects may be best attained, and that a more cordial feeling promoted amongst the profession by a systematic organization; do resolve to form ourselves into a Medical Society, &c.

We think every Physician should be a member of such an organization, and that the community should encourage them in its establishment. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

Dr. J. G. Ramsay, President;
" F. N. Luckey, Vice-President;
" C. A. Henderson, Secretary;
" J. J. Summerell, Treasurer.

Dr. I. W. Jones was selected to read an essay on some medical subject before the Society at their next regular meeting. Drs. Luckey and Jones were appointed delegates to represent the Rowan Society at the State Medical Society to be held in Raleigh. The regular meetings are to be biennial—Tuesdays of May and November Superior Court weeks.

We are also glad to learn that they reduced their scale of charges. A resolution was passed that when their bills were paid in barter at ante-bellum prices their charges would be at old rates—which we think just and reasonable. Their present charges are about fifty per cent. advance on old rates. This is not unreasonable, when we take into consideration the advanced rates of every other marketable article.

From the N. Y. Mercantile Journal.
SOUTHERN JOURNALISM.

One of the most gratifying features of the general revival of pleasant social relations as well of the old nationality and business at the South, is the reappearance of so many able and enterprising journals in the field of peaceful competition. The newspaper has become an essential element of American progress, and a vast number of our people would aim at as readily thinking of doing without houses, as of abandoning their morning perusal of printed news. Among the severest deprivations entailed upon the Southern people by the late war was the absence of their accustomed papers.

In the depth of our great struggle, a positive night seemed to settle over some portions of the vast Southern territory, the advance of hostile forces, or the utter impossibility of procuring paper, at any price, having extinguished the fires, literal and metaphorical of the Confederate press. A few journals in the distressed section managed to enter a desultory appearance on wall paper, making up by the weight of their remarks, and the richness and variety of their illustrations, for the absence of ordinary form and fashion.

Those adventurous lays are past, we trust, forever, and we hail with unfeigned satisfaction the cropping up, in all directions, throughout the lately scathed States, of papers both daily and weekly, as remarkable for their topography and material. Conspicuous among a host of exchanges that we might mention, we remark some eminent, not only for their commercial character and liberal enterprise, but for the valuable information contained in their articles.

We give a list of the more prominent of our Southern contemporaries:

North Carolina.—Raleigh Standard; Wilmington Dispatch; Wilmington Journal; Wilmington Herald; Salisbury Union Banner; Newbern Times; Raleigh Sentinel.

After giving the most prominent papers in each of the other seceded States, it continues:

As a general thing, the new dispensation of newspaperdom at the South appears to rest, at every point upon a thoroughly substantial basis the business feature assuming the fullest prominence in every instance. All parties engaged in these fresh enterprises are, seemingly imbued with the spirit of the time, and have combined their efforts most heartily to encourage sections' reconciliation, agriculture and the arts and in every way to obliterate the marks of civil conflict from the face of the country, and its memories from the minds of the people. This is what we all want, and this is the only true and manly plan. The heroism and genius displayed by the Southerners when contending against their countrymen, won by the brilliance of their sudden display the admiration of mankind, among whom, their worthiest direct opponents in the field and on the bloody deck were the most cordially outspoken. They have only to apply the same high qualifications to the far loftier career now opening before them, and wealth and happiness will soon return to hearth and homes that war has darkened and made desolate with its all-reverend.

From the Richmond Dispatch
WASHINGTON, May 21, 1866.

There was much disappointment to-day in consequence of a postponement by the Senate of the report of the Reconstruction Committee. Fessenden, on account of his position as chairman of the Senate branch of the notorious fifteen, intended to open debate on the measure, but being unwell he asked a delay until Wednesday, which of course was granted. The probabilities are that discussion on the measure will last about ten days—Several long by legal arguments have been prepared for delivery, while stump speeches, calling for no concession to rebels on any terms, may be looked for as a certainty. There is as much bitterness of feeling in the Senate as in the lower branch of Congress, and upon every occasion where there is an opportunity for oratorical display this bad blood shows itself.

It is not likely that General Howard will resign his position as Commissioner of the Freedmen's Bureau. The reports from the Commissioners now in the south investigating matters relative to the institution over which he presides have not been in the least satisfactory; but at the same time he hopes to prove the contrary to what has been officially reported by Steedman. It is very probable that will be a hard business. It is not difficult to know how the President regards the Bureau.

The concurrent resolution passed to-day by the House, which provides for the appointment of a committee to make a personal investigation into the operations of the Freedmen's Bureau during its entire term, is intended as a set-off against the disclosures that have just been made. The establishment is surely coming to grief; but its former good (?) character is to be shown up before its demise, if possible.

Mr. Eldridge to-day introduced a resolution to provide for a committee of three members of Congress to investigate the murder of five negroes recently at Mobile, and that the committee have power to send for persons and papers. This is as about as sensible as other resolutions of a like nature which have been introduced, and the burlesque which the author intended to make of the Memphis and other investigating committees by the introduction of this, pertaining to a Mobile murder, is worthy of appreciation. TIMON.

REIGNS OF TERROR TO ORDER.

The Radical journals are never so happy as when painting in vivid colors the "Reign of Terror," that exists (most part in imagination) in various parts in the South, in which the "Terrorists" always the racially whites, and the victims the docile and unoffending negro. A favorite mode of pushing this business is to publish extracts from alleged "private letters," rarely with a responsible name attached, in which the writers are made to represent that all manner of outrages are going on—that the "freedman" has no chance either to labor or to live, and that public sentiment is so demoralized that unless protected by the Government, his existence must simply be one of permanent torture. The object of this style of writing must be palpable enough to the most superficial. It is to supply ammunition for the Jacobins in Congress, to enable them to maintain their war against the President in his patriotic endeavors to restore the Union. It is to demonstrate the necessity of continuing that rich places for New England and "humanitarians," the Freedmen's Bureau. It is, in short, to strengthen the hands and stiffen the backbones of the Central Directory, in order, simply to keep themselves in power, by keeping Senators and Representatives from other States out.

Yet the ingenious gentlemen who are thus concocting these Reigns of Terror on paper—are not without half as cunning as they might be. They are doing their work in a rather gungling style.—They are gradually gaining in experience, however, and will doubtless do better by and by. In the meantime, we would kindly suggest that they are in danger of overdoing the business. They tell so much that is incredible, and use so many fearful adjectives in their so-called "extracts from private letters," that no sane man, no radical even, with a thumbnail of intellect will believe them. They have a very bad habit, too, of seeing with but one eye,—like Polyphemus. Whenever a white man perpet-rates an assault upon a freedman, who so wide awake as they—but who so sound asleep when the case happens to be the other way? By way of recent illustration, it may be observed that the journals which have been making the most of the late riots at Memphis, and the Radicals in Congress who have been jacking off thither a committee to "investigate," seem to have entirely overlooked the Reign of Terror which we showed the other day was existing in North Alabama, and they are quite as careful to ignore the terrible state of affairs which has also been shown to exist in Tennessee. The reason for their reticence, in these cases is no mystery. While men, while women and children were the victims, and the terrorists were negroes, or Radicals acting in concert with them, it would not do to touch Reigns of Terror like these. It would be telling too much truth, and that is the very thing that the immaculate patriots who are running the Central Directory do not want.—N. Express.

[From the Richmond Enquirer.]

The Southern people are in a peculiar condition. It has been remarked that one of the disadvantages of being poor is, that a poor man is required to be perfect. No allowance is made for his failures, as in the case of the rich. Something of the same sort is seen in our present political position. The politicians, the presses, the statesmen of the North, may indulge in the wildest excesses of speech and the grossest violations of duty, and may display the most violent and bloodthirsty spirit against a people whom they have already ruined; all this, if not right, is at least allowed.—But if a Southern man, stung by a sense of injustice, and aroused by the insults which are daily belched at us, failed, for once to measure and weigh his words, his indiscretion is a grief to his friends, and goes into the scrap-books of his enemies.

It is difficult to tell what course on our part would best please those who are demanding justice for us at the North. It would not do for us to seem indifferent to the struggle; and yet to declare our interest in it may give capital to the enemy. We are somewhat in the situation described by the workingman at a late reform meeting in England. Speaking for his class this man, who spoke throughout with remarkable shrewdness, said:

"They tell us that if we wish to get a vote we must show ourselves worthy of it by acting the part of good citizens and obeying the laws. Well, sir, this advice we have acted on, and for these many years past the working men of England have shown themselves as loyal, as peaceful, and as orderly as if they had blue blood in their veins. But lo and behold! after we have done the very things they advised us to do, these men turn round and tell the country that we do not care to have a vote, because we are not enthusiastic enough. If we wish to be received within the pale of the Constitution in any other capacity than that of tax payers we must have no rows, no riots, no threatening such as forced the last reform bill into law; and then, because we take the hint, they point to our peaceable attitude as a proof that we are content with our peaceable exclusion. Verily, there is no pleasing some men."

We shall urge upon our people to fulfil, as far as possible, both the conditions referred to in the above; to be peaceable, orderly and loyal, and at the same time to be attentive to them. We will try to give no advantage to our enemies, and to impose no burden on our friends; but the former have no right to take unbought license to themselves, and to hold us to the standard of infallibility, merely because we are weak and sorely tried; and our friends must not condemn us merely because the Radicals swear. They must be strong for the right.

THE LADIES' MAN.

Speaking of that interminable human bore the "Ladies' Man," a wide-awake contemporary says that by his air and gait, the ultra-fashionable style of his clothing, the killing curl of his mustache, the "look and die" expression of his smiling face his stream of small talk, and his sundry other signs and tokens of a plethora of vanity and a lack of soul and brain, you may distinguish at a glance the individual who plumes himself a "ladies' man." His belief in his own irresponsibility is written all over him. And to say the truth, your ladies' men have some ground for self-conceit. It is indubitable that girls do sometimes fall in love, or who suppose they love, fellows who look as if they had walked out of a tailor's fashion plate—creatures that by the aid of various artists who contribute to the "make up" of popinjays, have been converted into superb examples of what art can effect in the way of giving man an unmanly appearance.

The woman who marries one of these flatterers is to be pitied; for, if she has any glimmering of common sense, and a heart under her bodice, she will soon discover that her dainty husband has no more of a man's spirit in him than an automaton figure on a Savoyard's hand organ. But a woman with a true man's love is never caught by such a specimen of ornamental hollow ware. A sensible woman is, in fact, a terror to "ladies' men," for they are aware that her penetrating eye looks through them, and sounds the depth of their emptiness. She knows the man, indeed, from the trumpet counterfeits, and has no touch of the mackerel propensity to jump at a flashy bait, in her wholesome composition. The ladies' man should be permitted to live and die a bachelor. His vocation is to dangle after the fair sex, talk of soft nonense, to carry shawls and fans, to astonish boarding school misses, to kindle love flames as evanescent, and harmless as the fizz of a squire. If, however, he must needs become a Benedict, let him be yoked with some vain and silly flint, his natural counterpart. So shall the law of fitness not be outraged.

A CENTENNIAL RETROSPECT.

A. D. 1766.

Go back, my muse, a century to-day—
Back, back, thro' time's sepulchral shades
Till, lost in distance, faint and warily
Thy footfall echoes down the hollow past!

Then British peers were busy to proclaim Their "right to bind" the weak in galling chains;
And now our Congress re-enacts the same,
With just such bloody prospect for its pains.

An oft told story! Politics and spoils
Of place are now the sole, the plastic power
That moulds the laws; while all the nation toils
An age to mend the ruin of an hour!

If there's one sin he chronicles with fire—
The angel scribe whose pen dips in the sun—
Tis want of conquering mercy—coward ire
Against the vanquished after fields are won

Then Gov'nor Tryon saw his beef and beer,
His barbecue unshared, fed to fish;
And now the negro will be first, I fear,
His "Equal Rights" in Steven's face to dash!

Then Pestalozzi walked the college porch,
And Europe's teachers roused from foggy snore;
Now red Reform to steel hath changed the birch
Her patent pedagogues the "army blues."

Then Denmark's king his consort guilty found,
Of crime with Court Struensee—took his head;
The cuckolds now make no such vengeful ground
But sue divorce, and try another "blade."

Then ruled and triumphed infidel Voltaire;
Now Beecher in his Bible Voltaire tucks;
Then did the naturalist Buffon appear;
Now Andrew hath a cabinet of "ducks."

'Tis hard to rhyme about thee, "sixty-six,"
Thou' 1 and 7 or 1 and 8 appears
Before thee; for they say at River Styx
No ghost could pay his ferryage in these years!

"No money!" Was there ever such a time
For empty pockets, since old Eve did fret O'er pouchless leopards? I'll close up my rhyme—
Some body's called to pay that little debt!
Fifth month, 1866. E. P. II.

The question, "Does getting drunk ever advance one's happiness?" would seem to be put at rest by the Irishman who went courting wher drunk, and was asked what pleasure he found in whisky?
"Oh, Nelly, it's a treat entirely to see two of your swate party faces instead of one!"

The New York World is not the least mollified by the recent conversion of Stanton, the Divine. The editor says:
The men who really ought to be hanged
for the sufferings at Andersonville were men, not like Witz, but men like Stanton, whose despotic and arbitrary nature stopped the exchange of prison ers. As it was the interest of the Confederates to exchange, assume that they wanted to; for though impulse may be mistaken, and reasoning may be wrong, interest can always be trusted.

"I'll Call around and Pay."—What a world of woe is contained in these few words to the poor artisan and mechanic!
I'll call ar und and pay," says the rich man, to avoid the trouble of going to the desk to get the necessary funds, and the poor mechanic is obliged to go home to disappoint his workmen, and all who depend upon him for their due. It is an easy matter to work; the only real glory in this life is an independent idea of being able to sustain yourself by the labor of your own hands, and it may be easily imagined what crushing force there is in, "I'll call around and pay," to the laboring man who depends on that pay for subsistence. If those who could pay would pay at once, it would place hundreds and thousands in a condition to do likewise, and would prevent much misery and distress.

WELL DONE.—General Howard has ordered the arrest of the officers of the freedmen's bureau in Virginia and North Carolina recently reported by Generals Steedman and Fullerton as guilty malfeasance in office. So we learn from the Tribune, was no doubt authorized to make the announcement. But how do these arrests comport with the General's assurance to the public in his last letter that stories prejudicial to the character of his subordinate were not to be relied upon? Does he intend to "whitewash" his pet? We shall see.—Richmond Dispatch.

Fearful Mortality of the Negro.—
The Northern papers even admit the terrible mortality of the negroes in the late war. The New York Journal of Sir Morton Peto & Bets failed for £4,000,000.

The Liverpool Mercantile Credit Association and other suspensions are reported. There was intense excitement in financial circles. Business

LOCAL.

The following card from the ladies was handed in too late for yesterday's issue:

THANKS.

The ladies of the Methodist Church respectfully tender their thanks to Gov. ernor Vance for his entertaining Address at their late festival.

Their acknowledgments are also due to the Press of the town for the repeated notices which were given of the entertainment, and to the Salisbury Band for the excellent music which added so much to the interest and pleasure of the occasion.

Nor can they permit this opportunity to pass by without offering the due meal of praise to their Sisters of the other churches for their generous assistance, affording as it did such a pleasing exhibition of their liberality of spirit and of their hearty desire to promote the success of everything good.

SALISBURY, N. C., REVIVING.

We are pleased to observe, from the Banner, that wagons from the surrounding counties are pouring in upon the streets of its locality, laden with produce. We trust that the liberal spirit of enterprise and energy, to which the Banner alludes, is necessary to make Salisbury the great centre of trade in that portion of the Old North State, will pervade the mercantile portion of that community, and make it what it is capable of becoming.—Norfolk Day Book.

A liberal spirit of enterprise and energy, on the part of our citizens, and merchants especially, is, indeed, all that is necessary to make Salisbury the great centre of trade in this portion of the State. We shall continue to labor to make her such, and we trust we shall receive proper encouragement from our merchants. Heretofore they have generally been too close-fisted—so much so, that Charlotte, taking advantage of it, has well nigh surpassed us in the amount of business. We are glad to say that a more liberal spirit now seems to pervade all classes of our citizens and business men; but there is yet much room for improvement in this particular, and we trust they will not be slow to see their real interest.

A Mistake.—We were mistaken yesterday in the name of the Freedman whipped for stealing. It was not William Barringer but Aaron Lyerly. William Barringer's trial will not come off till August.

Removed.—The Office of the Daily Guardian and the Weekly Catawba Watchman recently published at Charlotte, N. C., by J. E. Britton, Esq., has been removed to Columbia, S. C., and these papers will be issued from there.

An irascible gentleman lately fought a duel with his intimate friend because he jealously asserted that he was born without a shirt to his back.

A little girl eight years of age has just died at Lincoln, England, in consequence of being frightened by a companion who dressed herself in a white sheet to represent a ghost, as she said, "for a bit of fun."

One of the $5,000 bonds stolen with the $1,700,000 taken from old Mr. Lord of New York, has been found in the possession of a pawnbroker named James G. Ferguson, who has been arrested and held for trial.

During the past month 520 freedmen have been sent from Washington to places where labor could be furnished them, by Mrs. J. Sephine S. Griffin, agent of the national freedmen's relief association. About half or more went north—mostly to New England.

A curious case of divorce was developed before Judge Barnard, in New York on Saturday. The parties in the suit are Rev. Joseph A. Saxton, of Norwichton, Conn., and his wife, Anna A. Saxton. It appears on the papers that Mrs. Saxton, in February of this year, applied to the supreme court and obtained a divorce from her husband on the ground of adultery. It is alleged by the defendant that he knew nothing of the divorce until he saw it in the newspapers, and he now seeks to open the decree and be allowed to come in and defend himself.

The sum of fifteen thousand dollars has been subscribed in England as a testimonial of ex-Lieutenant M. F. Maury, late of the "Confederacy."

It is a remarkable truth, illustrating the peculiar characteristics of the race, at least in their present condition, that the mortality of the negro regiments, organized during the war, far surpassed anything known in military history. Reports are on file in the War Department, showing that in some regiments more than half the negro soldiers died of disease within a few months after enlistment, and this too where they had better care and quarters than white soldiers alongside of them. This mortality was not owing to contagious or infectious disease, but to the lack of physical stamina.

DAVIS' VEGETABLE PAIN-KILLER.

THE UNIVERSAL REMEDY FOR INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL COMPLAINTS.

At this period of there are but few of the human race unacquainted with the merits of the Pain Killer; but while some extol it as a sovereign they know but little of its power in curing pain when taken internally while others use it externally with great success but are equally ignorant of its healing virtues when applied externally. We therefore wish to say to all that it is equally successful whether used internally or externally, and it stands alone, unrivaled by all the great catalogue of Family Medicines, and its sale is universal and immense. The demand for it from India and other foreign countries is equal to the demand at home, and it has become known in those far off places by its merits—the proprietors have never advertised it or been at any expense in its introduction into foreign lands.

A SUMMER AND FEVER MEDICINE.

"Great oaks from little acorns grow."

The worst diseases known to the human race spring from causes so small as to almost defy detection. The volumes of scientific lore that fill the tables and shelves of the medical fraternity only go to prove and elaborate these facts.

Then guard yourselves while you may. The smallest pimple on the skin is a tell-tale and indicator of disease. It may fade and die away from the surface of the body, but it will reach the vitals, perhaps, at last, and death be the result and final close. INCREASE OF RATS—The Farmer's Gazette (English) asserts and proves by figures that one pair of Rats will have a progeny and descendants no less than 651,050 in three years. Now, unless this immense family can be kept down, they would consume more food than would sustain 65,000 human beings.
See "Costar's" advertisement above.

RATS versus BIRDS—Whoever engages in shooting small birds is a cruel man; whoever aids in exterminating rats is a benefactor. We should like some one to give us the benefit of their experience in driving out these pests. We need something be-

NEW SKIRTS FOR 1866.
The Great Invention of the Age in HOOP SKIRTS.
J. W. BRADLEY'S New Patent DUPLEX ELLIPTIC (or double) SPRING SKIRT.
THIS INVENTION consists of DUPLEX (or two)
ELLIPTIC PURE REFINED STEEL SPRINGS, ingeniously braided tightly and firmly together, edge to edge, making the toughest, most flexible, elastic and durable Spring ever used. They seldom bend or break, like the single spring, and consequently preserve their perfect and beautiful shape more than twice as long as any single spring skirt that ever has or can be made.
The wonderful flexibility and great comfort experienced particularly in all crowded assemblies, operas, carriages, railroad cars, churches, pews, arm chairs, for promenade and house dress, as the skirt can be folded when in use to occupy a small space as easily and conveniently as a silk or Muslin dress.
A lady having enjoyed the pleasure, comfort and great convenience of wearing the Duplex Elliptic Steel Spring Skirt for a single day will never afterwards willingly dispense with their use. For children, misses and young ladies they are superior to all others.
The hoops are covered with 2 ply double twisted thread and will wear twice as long as the single yarn covering which is used on all single hoop skirts. The three bottom rods on every skirt are also double steel, and twice double covered to prevent the covering from wearing off the rods when dragging down stairs, stone steps, etc., etc., which they are constantly subject to when in use.
All are made of the new and elegant corded tapes, and are the best quality in every part, giving to the wearer the most graceful and perfect shape possible, and are unquestionably the lightest, most desirable, comfortable and economical skirt ever made.
